TRIP TO FISH CANYON

GLENDALE PARTY GOES WITH SIERRA CLUB TO VIEW FAMOUS FALLS

Fish canyon, which is in the Azusa district, is a famous spot. It has been an attraction to tourists and to pedestrians and sightseers of all kinds for many years. The canyon is picturesque and full of natural beauty and to those who have ears to hear and eyes to see and hearts to understand it is teeming with the nature facts that make a countryside of absorbing interest.

Under the charge of Chester Verrstig of Glendale, who proved a most painstaking and well-informed leader, the party started by car from Los Angeles Sunday morning, for Puente Largo, a station near Azusa. There was a large party, those from Glendale being Dorothy Woods, Ella Wall, Catherine Duncan, Miss Wickham and Eula Richardson.

From Puente Largo the party started across the Wash and took the road up Fish Canyon, a hike of about four and a half miles. There is a fine government trail to the top of the Falls and a mile beyond. The party kept ears and eyes open. The ornithologists saw the usual number of California birds but nothing unusual. The natural historians were greatly excited by the fact that one of their party discovered a King snake, the masterful serpent that can kill the rattlesnake. Rattlesnakes were seen here and there.

When the party came to the Big falls they saw a picturesque sight. The falls are 150 feet in height and command one of the most striking canyons in that part of the State. Everywhere the laurels were showing their beautiful colors. The numerous trees of every kind glowed with the rich hues of their autumn foliage.

In the creek there was plenty of water for picnic parties and many camp sites, with a few still left to be taken up. The floor of the canyon was a mass of flowers of all kinds. There was buckwheat, and scarlet columbine, scarlet pentstemon and lupines and the numerous other wild flowers for which California is famous, although many are now past flower-bearing.

Among the trees that adorn the sides of the canyon are sycamores of wonderfully picturesque appearance, bays, sumachs, elders and also a profusion of poison oak. The party, however, seemed to be proof against the only drawback to the beauties of the canyon. The walk back revealed new beauties in the way of scenery and the party having only a few hours' hike lingered as the afternoon sun began to cast lengthening shadows on the ground.

This will be one of the last hikes of the season. The club has done a great deal of exploring this season and has many interesting records to show of the peregrinations of its members. The trip to Mount Whitney, which lasted a month, will not be easily forgotten and these small side trips are gradually familiarizing the members of the club with the California at their own doors.

NEW YORK STATE PICNIC

The numerous residents in Southern California who formerly were resident in New York State are expected to be present at the great Fall picnic reunion of the people from all over Southern California, under the auspices of the New York State Society of Southern California, in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, all day Saturday, Sept. 30. Bring picnic dinner, cup and spoon. Coffee will be furnished free to all who buy the badge. There will be county headquarters and registers. A brief program will be given in the afternoon. Visitors welcome. Further information may be obtained from C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, California Savings bank, Los Angeles, Main 5635; Home 10459.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

PRINCIPAL WHITE REPORTS EXCELLENT ATTENDANCE ON OPENING DAY

The Grammar schools of Glendale began their sessions for the ensuing year with every promise of a most successful season. The children were on hand at all the schools full of enthusiasm and the teachers came back from their various vacations with renewed energy. Principal Richardson D. White reports the attendance at the various schools was as follows:

Doran Street	56
Intermediate	264
Pacific Avenue	141
Central Avenue	129
Broadway	192
Colorado Boulevard	184
Columbus Avenue	231
Total	1197

In addition to this there is the attendance at the kindergartens to be reckoned. This was as follows:

Broadway Kindergarten	17
Colorado Boulevard	42
Columbus	40
Total	99

Added to the regular attendance of 1197 this gives a total attendance on opening day of 1296. Last year the total attendance at the schools on opening day was 1196—one less than this year. The kindergarten attendance was 66. That gave a total attendance on opening day 1915 of 1262. This shows an increase of 32 for this year.

During the first week last year the enrollment had fallen off a little. By the end of the first month it had increased by 98. A similar increase may be expected this year.

OLD SETTLERS' ASSOCIATION PICNIC

In 1907 a number of the old settlers of Glendale, Tropico and vicinity conceived the idea of forming an organization for the purpose of getting together at least once a year for the purpose of renewing old friendships formed in the earlier years of the settlement and of forming new ones with later comers, for on these annual occasions no one interested in the valley is ruled out. Usually the "picnics" have been held at Echo Park on account of its accessibility to the people of the valley and those coming from other places, although on two occasions the meetings were held at the home of the president.

The meeting this year was held at the park last Saturday. The attendance was not as large as was hoped for but still there was a good sized assemblage present. The midday luncheon was the principal feature of the occasion, followed as usual by a very informal program of impromptu speeches, reminiscences and the reading of original poems by two of the members, Samuel Parker and George W. Sanford, and the singing of an old-time song and the relation of numerous humorous anecdotes by Rev. J. H. Henry.

The president of the association, Mr. J. C. Sherer, one of Glendale's pioneers, acted as toastmaster and saw to it that but few escaped giving their testimony to the social value of the day. Among the oldest residents of the valley present were, Asa French, who passed through the valley in 1852; Robert Devine and Edward Ayers, both of whom came to the coast in the early fifties and became residents of Tropico in 1880 and 1883 respectively; J. S. Hodgson, who with his wife came to their home on the San Fernando road in 1882 and P. H. Bullis, who came here about 1878. Among the residents of Los Angeles present were Dr. J. T. Morgan, who in 1883 owned property and lived near the location of the present Pacific Avenue school, and Mr. A. S. Hollingsworth, who was the first postmaster at Tropico, being located then near the site of the G. A. R. hall on Glendale avenue.

The secretary of the association, Mr. N. C. Burch, was absent on account of illness and a similar affliction kept away some of the other old timers who have heretofore always been present on these happy occasions, but all resolved that next year a greater effort will be made to increase the membership of this association and secure a large attendance.

NEW JERSEY PICNIC

All former residents of New Jersey, now in Southern California, are invited to attend the all-day picnic, Saturday, Sept. 30, in Sycamore grove, Los Angeles. Everyone should bring picnic dinner, cup and spoon. Coffee will be provided. The county registers will be used so that all may find their old home friends. There will be a brief program in the afternoon.

BRITISH WAIT TO POUNCE ON BULGARS

PART OF FRENCH AND WHOLE OF BRITISH FORCES WAIT CRUSHING OF ENEMY'S RIGHT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Sept. 19.—While the French and Servians are chasing the Bulgars in the direction of Monastir, the Allied center consisting of the French and the left consisting of the British are patiently waiting for the signal to advance and catch the retreating Bulgars in a trap. This can only be avoided by the withdrawal of the entire line of the Bulgarians. The Servians report having captured 36 Bulgar field guns.

ITALIANS AND BULGARS IN FIERCE BATTLE

ALLIED TROOPS DRIVE BULGARIANS IN DISORGANIZED MASS BEFORE THEM

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The battle between the Allied troops and the Teuton-Bulgars in Macedonia and Servia is proceeding with some desperate fighting. While all the allied troops are fighting with great vigor the Servians are distinguishing themselves by their absolutely perfect system of attack. The Italians also are almost daily in hand-to-hand fights with the Bulgars. Desperate encounters between the Italians and the Bulgarians took place Monday in the Veles mountains. The Allies are advancing rapidly on Monastir, whither the Bulgarians are retiring in great disorder.

HEAVY RAIN HALTS ALLIES' OFFENSIVE

OPERATIONS ON THE SOMME FRONT RESULT IN SERIOUS LOSSES TO GERMANS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Heavy rains are interfering with the Allies' offensive on the Somme front. The Germans admitted today that they had been compelled to abandon large and important sections of their positions between Barleux and Vermandovillers, with the villages of Berny and Deniecourt. In the course of the fighting the Germans lost very heavily, several battalions being practically annihilated. Both the French and the British repelled with great slaughter fierce counter-attacks on the part of the Germans. North of Fleurs the Teuton attacks resulted in their being driven farther back, the British adding to their gains in territory there.

HOLLAND TO MAINTAIN ITS RIGHTS

DUTCH PARLIAMENT DECIDES THAT TIME HAS COME TO ASSUME MORE INDEPENDENT ATTITUDE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

THE HAGUE ,Sept. 19.—Queen Wilhelmina opened parliament here today in person. She was enthusiastically greeted. Various matters of profound interest concerning the maintenance of the neutrality of Holland were discussed. Violations of that neutrality and threatened violations of it were also spoken of with considerable vigor. Finally it was agreed that Holland should assume a more independent attitude toward some of her big neighbors.

CARRANZISTA VICTORY IS DOUBTED

LATEST REPORTS STATE THAT VILLA LEFT CHIHUAHUA WITH SIX AUTO LOADS OF AMMUNITION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EL PASO, Sept. 19.—Grave doubts are entertained as to the nature of the "victory" reported from Chihuahua by the Carranzistas. It is pointed out that any big fight such as that of which the Carranzistas boast would inevitably have been known to the American officers in Mexico and would have been reported. The latest reports from Chihuahua state that Villa carried away with him six auto loads of ammunition. That does not show much appearance of his having been beaten or his having been in the fight. It is believed that Villa retired with the greater part of his men in good order, though the Carranzistas maintain that he is being pursued.

GERMANS OFFICIALLY ADMIT RETIREMENT

BERLIN WAR OFFICE ACKNOWLEDGES SURRENDER OF TRENCH SYSTEM EAST OF GINCHY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—It was officially announced here today that the Germans had surrendered a whole trench system east of Ginchy, to the British this morning. It was alleged that this was necessary for the purpose of straightening the German line.

MILITIAMEN IN EIGHTY-FIVE-MILE HIKE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas, Sept. 19.—Fourteen thousand militiamen are engaged today in an eighty-five-mile hike, which is part of a great sham battle now being conducted under the supervision of Gen. Funston and his staff.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

CAFETERIA UNDER DIRECTION OF STUDENT BODY PROVES POPULAR

From the spacious dining room of the School Cafeteria, these days, come the tinkling of dishes and the odors of good things to eat. The cafeteria is a busy place.

Perhaps not all of the citizens of Glendale have heard of this enterprise, which was started last year by the Glendale High School Student Body; but there are few students who have not tasted of its appetizing products. Many students procure their noon meal here daily for an average cost not exceeding fifteen cents. This remarkable economy is made possible by the fact that no profit whatever is attached to the charges, and that two very important branches of the work are handled entirely by students as a part of their regular school work.

Under the able direction of their instructor, Miss Hansen, the domestic science classes supervise the preparation of the menus, the ordering of supplies, etc. This affords practical training for the department, and at the same time insures a bill-of-fare which is in accord with the laws of health. Miss Hansen lays great stress upon this point in all her classes; and it may be said that there are few restaurants where as much attention is paid to hygiene as in this student cafeteria.

A look into the kitchen at once impresses the observer with the roominess and cleanliness of things. Two experienced cooks, Mrs. M. Myer and Mrs. C. E. Porter, are employed to prepare the food, which is kept hot on a large steam table.

The big dining room is equipped, this year, with about thirty new tables, made for the purpose by the woodworking department under Mr. Hildebrand.

Mr. Joy's commercial students handle the finances of this enterprise—which, by the way, is no small task in itself, considering that meals are furnished to from 100 to 150 students daily, beside the growing ice cream and candy business.

Some idea of the sort of meals offered may be had from the following list, which was copied from yesterday's bill-of-fare:

Cream of Tomato Soup	5c
Roast Beef Sandwich, Mashed Potatoes, Gravy	10c
Noodles	5c
Mashed Potatoes	3c
Brown Gravy	2c
Creamed Peas	5c
Hot Weinie Bun	5c
Dutch Lunch	5c
Salads.
Nut Bread	2c
Bread	1c
Butter	1c
Pie	5c
Fruit	5c
Milk	3c
Ice Cream	5c
Chocolate	5c

Lisle Johnson and Hill McGillis were High school visitors yesterday. Hill, it will be remembered, has been until recently a member of the U. S. navy. Lisle, who graduated last year, is engaged in agricultural work near Riverside.

Loren Litchfield, another graduate, visited school recently. With his family he is paying Glendale a few weeks' visit from Oroso, where he is managing the parental ranch.

Wilfred Long and Roscoe Puffer are planning what will probably be the first outing planned this term for the relief of "tired, worn-out nerves," as Wilfred expresses it. They will journey up the Arroyo Seco on Saturday and return in time for school on Monday.

GLENDALE BRANCH

An official letter from the Los Angeles postmaster is addressed to the Evening News thus, "Glendale Evening News, Glendale Branch, Los Angeles, Cal." On this envelope there is nothing to suggest that Glendale is an important community center. What would we think of having all the churches as branches of Los Angeles churches, all the business houses as branches of Los Angeles business houses. Glendale is an important community center and should have an independent postoffice.

WILL ENTERTAIN LADIES

The Federated Brotherhood of Glendale will observe Ladies' Night at the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening, October 3, with a banquet at 6:30 o'clock. This gathering will be in the interest of California Dry.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Wednesday; foggy along the coast; westerly winds.

RAILWAY WAGE BOOST

CONGRESS UNFAIR TO TILLERS OF SOIL WHOSE WAGE IS AT LOWEST LEVEL

Henry N. Pope, newly elected president of the Association of State Presidents of the Farmer's union, has given out a statement defining the views of the organized farmers on the eight hour day law recently enacted by Congress.

"The farmers stand for a fair wage to both labor and capital engaged in handling the products of the soil from the time they leave the hands of the farmer until they reach the consumer.

"This applies not only to transportation but to all industries engaged in serving the agricultural interests of this nation. We favor an eight hour working day for all those who labor, with as large a compensation as business conditions justify.

"For my part, I question the wisdom of congress fixing wages of labor employed by private enterprises. I doubt if it is in the interest of either labor, capital, or the people to make the wage schedule of railroad employees a political issue.

"If the government is going to fix wages for any one class of railroad employees it should fix them for all classes, and if it has power to increase wages it must also have the power to decrease wages, and congress should review the comparative inequalities between the different classes of railway employees and make such adjustments as wisdom dictates, and do it without fear or favor.

"I want to make a special plea for the 350,000 section hands who walk their beats in storms and rain and whose brawn and brain make possible our great transportation systems. Their compensation is not sufficient to feed and clothe their families and their children are sentenced by American civilization to a life of ignorance and poverty.

"Next to them is that class of underpaid clerks, station employees, shopmen and others whose loyalty and faithfulness to the hand that feeds them and whose consideration for the public welfare entitles them to recognition by congress.

"And last but by no means least, there is one class of citizens whose condition is worse than that of the most lowly railroad laborer, and that is the farmer. There are four and a half million male farm laborers in the United States who make $1.35 a day, and a million and a half women farm laborers who make 78 cents a day when they board themselves, and out of this meager earning they must care for those dependent upon them.

"All those who work upon the farm labor from twelve to fourteen hours a day. The condition of women laborers in the field today is worse than it was during slavery.

"Not a word has been spoken by congress in defense of the woman who rakes the hay and gathers the sheaves, and little has been done that has increased the income of the farmer or enabled him to pay a higher wage to his laborers.

"But today we find the highest paid laborers in the world, making three times more money than farmers, demanding a 25 per cent increase and congress hastening to their relief. This increase must in the end rest upon the backs of the farmers and will reduce their incomes, increase their hours of labor, and call for yet another levy of farm mothers from the home to the field."

"THE NEW REPUBLIC"

"The New Republic," a temperance cantata, will be presented Friday evening, Sept. 22, at the Glendale High School auditorium, by Glendale talent. There will be eighty persons in the cast. Prof. and Mrs. Lowinsky, the noted musical artists, will play the prelude.

Mrs. Grover C. Cable, the well-known dramatic reader, has the leading role of Miss Columbia, and Miss Barbara Mitchell, impersonates California. Nineteen beautiful young ladies, a group of college boys, a band of children, motherhood, fatherhood, flower girls, the drunkard, his daughter and King Alcohol are other characters that help to make this a most striking and interesting dramatic presentation.

This striking cantata has been staged twice in Los Angeles and in San Diego, Pasadena, Pomona, Long Beach, Covina, El Monte, El Centro, La Mesa, Escondido and other places and has future engagements for months ahead.

Glendale is fortunate in securing this brilliant entertainment, which is thrilling and intensely interesting. Admission free. Staged by Mrs. Hattie C. Young of Long Beach.

NEW MACHINES OF WAR

Just as Jules Verne, the famous French novelist, imagined and described all the great inventions of the present age, and made specially famous the submarine by his story of the "Nautilus" and its journey of 20,000 leagues under the sea, so the modern novelist Conan Doyle scored a success in the power of imagination by describing and anticipating the German attempt to cut off British supplies by means of submarines.

Now comes the success of another novelist, H. G. Wells, who some years ago, before the present war, described the mammoth iron fortress, with caterpillar wheels, that moved over the battlefields and won wars. The British have just tried out some of these wonderful machines made after the manner described by the clever novelist. It looks as though the novelist might almost claim a patent on his idea.

The fact that the British had invented a traveling fort, that can climb walls, smash through forts and walk over ditches and trenches and the craters of shells, was made manifest within the past three days when these huge machines appeared for the first time on the field of batle. Apparently they did all that was claimed for them. If anything they were too daring but there is no doubt they were effective.

Eyewitnesses say that these wonderful machines could not be deterred by the width of a shell crater. They simply walked right in and walked out on the other side. They were proof against machine guns and traversed the German ditches enfilading the defenders and making it a matter of comparative ease to clear out the positions.

So much for imagination translated into action. The greatest things of the world have first appeared as dreams. To the commonplace mind the forecasts of the human imagination are folly. In reality all true imaginings are part of the divine mind. They are not under the necessity of being demonstrated by reason. All the steps that lead to them do not need to be detailed. In one illuminating flash the invention or the device or the plan for the future appears to the mind of the true genius. To others may be safely left the task of putting together in concrete shape the work seen first by the mind of the seer or the poet.

Verne not only imagined a submarine, but he gave interesting and perfectly correct details of its workings and of the means for revivifying the polluted air within by means of caustic soda. His instruments are detailed and act just as they do nowadays on a modern submarine. So Wells' huge machines climbed over ditches and went through streams and over ploughed land and walls and dashed through houses and broke up military formations, just as the concrete realization of his dream does today on the battlefields of the Somme.

It is narrated in the latest news that some of the machines have been destroyed by the big German guns. That is very likely. Till the war ends there are likely to be more new inventions tried out and there will be none of them that will not be vulnerable to weapons of the other side. The contest will continue and probably at the end of it all the world will the richer be by reason of some new mechanical principles discovered.

SPAIN'S DISCREET POSITION

It is said that Alfonso, King of Spain, is the most democratic ruler in Europe. He is now credited also with being a monarch of great diplomatic mentality. Alfonso has managed thus far to keep his country out of the European war. That is quite a feat in itself. Now when the European chancelleries are speaking of the negotiations that must certainly be made for peace ere long they point to Spain as the natural place for such a council and to Alfonso as the chairman of the board of international consultation. This is an extraordinary testimonial to the cleverness of the king and of his prime minister, Romanones.

It is easily seen in the history of the past two years in the United States how difficult a matter it is to keep out of the war wih diverse interests pulling in contrary directions. The United States with its desire to be neutral has managed to offend deeply the Central Powers, who were plotting on her very soil hostile acts that might have involved this land in serious difficulties. It will be remembered what compensation Britain had to pay the United States for the depredations of the Alabama, the Southern privateer that was built in England.

The United States has steered with difficulty among the shoals and narrows of international jealousies. The fact that this country has been supplying the Allies with ammunition and munitions of war will not easily be forgotten by the Central Powers, although they have done the same thing themselves and it is not forbidden by the law of nations.

These things, however, have so inflamed the minds of the Central Powers that they are unwilling to trust the settlement of the European struggle to this country. It is not so very long ago when President Roosevelt negotiated peace between Japan and Russia in the treaty of Portsmouth. That was a time when the United States stood very high in the esteem of the world and when the dictum of its president was well-nigh a world symbol. Now there is little likelihood that the powers of Europe will submit their differences to the arbitration or settlement of this country.

That is why Europe is looking toward Spain as the one place that has been sufficiently tactful to retain the confidence of the warring nations.

Spain has acted with great discretion throughout the war. German and British and French and Italian agents have been waging a bitter contest on her shores for the purpose of trying to win the affections of the Spanish people and government. The Spanish people have been constantly reminded of the taking of Gibraltar by the British. The Germans, who have no hesitation in gobbling up little countries like Belgium or provinces like Alsace-Lorraine, point to Gibraltar as a reason why Spain should favor them rather than the British.

Alfonso XIII is a wise king. He is a sovereign of the people. He has started his country on the road to prosperity and he is not likely to lose these advantages by quarreling with Britain over a military and naval position lost two centuries ago. At present by tactful and skilful steering the ship of state in Spain has been kept midway between the Scylla of German influence and the Charybdis of German anger. This is largely due to the cleverness of Alfonso as to the knowledge of Prime Minister Romanones. Thus Spain is now spoken of as the place of international arbitration.

NEW BRISCOE ATTRACTS MOTORISTS

The Hagood-Fergusson Motor Car Co., who have their show rooms at 102 W. Broadway, received a new Briscoe 4-24 demonstrator Saturday. The smart lines, as well as the superbly finished Meadow Green body and white wheels of the car have attracted much attention, and the agents are extremely busy making demonstrations. Sunday and Monday the car was run 180 miles on seven gallons of gasoline, averaging 25½ miles per gallon for a new five passenger car, which supports the contention that when broken in, the Briscoe will average from 25 to 35 miles per gallon of gas.

LIBRARY AND THE SCHOOLS

Mrs. Danford, librarian of the Glendale public library, is anxious that students of the public schools should know that she is making a special effort this season to instruct all who want to learn, in the proper use of the reference library. By learning how to set about getting books on the subjects they are studying, and the best books on those subjects, students will be wonderfully stimulated and will have new horizons opened up to them. Students of the various schools are asked to consult with the librarian regarding this matter.

Not without design does God write the music of our lives. Be it ours to learn the tune and not be dismayed at the "rests." They are not to be omitted. If we look up, God himself will beat the time for us. With the eye on him we shall strike the next note full and clear.—Arthur T. Pierson.

EGAN SCHOOL TO OPEN

LOCAL DANCING AND ELOCUTION ESTABLISHMENT TO BEGIN SEASON

The faculty of the Egan School of Glendale takes pleasure in announcing their Fall opening, which will be marked by the Children's Party Friday, Sept. 22, 3:30 p. m., at Butler's Hall. There will be programme and refreshments free. All friends of the school are invited.

It is hoped that the people of Glendale will keep up their generous spirit in the support of the school. There will be a special course started for students of the local schools, at special rates. Arrangements have been made, that the students can take elocution as well as dancing alone as a separate course.

There will be a special class for little tots from the ages of 5-7 years. Individual attention will be given to all pupils of the school.

All instructors are from the Los Angeles Egan school and the best obtainable. Nowhere in the States can students obtain such an excellent course of studies at such low rates and under such able instructors. The Egan School is known as one of the best in the country and in Glendale.

A special course in standardized ball room dancing in the evening will be opened by request. The standardized steps will be taught, so as to enable all pupils to be able to dance at any place, with any one. The affair is to be purely of a social nature.

The Faculty intends to carry on these "dances" on the order of club dances. Only those known to the faculty, or those who can be introduced by some one known to the faculty, will be admitted.

Refreshments will be served free of charge to the dancers, so that it will not be necessary for anyone to leave the building during the evening.

The music will be the best obtainable, professionals from the city taking part. No expenses will be saved to make this a high-class affair, something we feel sure Glendale peopeople will be glad to support. These evening affairs will be "informal," beginning at eight o'clock p. m., at Butler's Hall, Brand Blvd.

FEDERATION DISCUSSES WORK

The Glendale Federated Parent-Teachers' association held a very enthusiastic meeting Monday. The Playground committee's report was received and was in every way satisfactory to the members of the federation. The next live question for consideration is the installing of a swimming pool. A committee was appointed to investigate the moving picture feasibility. The chairman of each department gave an outline of the work intended to be followed the coming year. Particular emphasis was placed upon the coming lectures of Jerome Hall Raymond, the admission being placed so low that it is possible for everyone to attend. The money received from last years' Raymond lectures has been set apart to serve as a nucleus for a scholarship fund. The same use will be made of the money this year. Announcement was made that any one taking notes of the Raymond lectures will receive credits for a college or correspondence course. The programs in all of the departments of the federation are to be of vital interest the coming year. Suggestive programs and questions are earnestly solicited.

The heads of the departments of the federation for the coming year are:

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, president of Federation.
Education—Mrs. N. C. Kelley.
Visiting—Miss Eva Daniels.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

When Mrs. Blake Franklin arrived home Monday about dinner time she found a message waiting her, summoning her to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell of Myrtle street, where a birthday surprise dinner awaited her. The birthday surprise party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell. The dinner was in the form of a progressive affair. The first two courses were served at the Chappell residence and the last two at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, W. Third street. Mrs. Franklin received many gifts in honor of the occasion. The rooms in both houses were decorated with pink Canterbury bells. After dinner the whole party went to the Palace Grand to see the presentation of "Little Miss Happiness" on the screen.

SUNDAY SYMPOSIUM

INTERESTING PUBLIC SCHOOL SERVICE HELD IN FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Public School Service, held Sunday morning at the First Congregational church, Third and Central, was attended by an audience which not only filled the main auditorium but also the side rooms. Many who attended pronounce it one of the most timely and interesting special services which this church has ever promoted.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchison in a most carefully prepared address told of the splendid work that is being accomplished by the Parent-Teacher Federation. The speaker told how efforts are being made to make better homes and to co-operate with the teachers for greater efficiency in the schools.

Mr. Richardson D. White in a most earnest and convincing manner told how the teachers are interested in the moral well-being of the scholar. He declared that teaching the three Rs" is not the chief concern of the teacher but to help the child to develop "character." "All our efforts must result in character building."

Mr. George U. Moyse in his address strongly emphasized all that Mr. White had said and then told how the faculty of the High school was endeavoring to develop the best in the boy and girl. "Our teachers take a deep and personal interest in the physical and moral welfare of the student. We not only supplement the good work and care of the home but sometimes we have to do for the boy and girl that which some homes sadly fail to do. Our enlarged equipment now enables us to offer courses of study that meet the needs of all."

Dr. Willisford spoke of the splendid work which the Federation and our schools are doing for the community. He said, "It is very fortunate that we have men at the head of our schools who are strong in their moral and religious character, men who take a deep interest in the moral development of the young." Dr. Willisford urged the boys and girls to give earnest heed to their religious education and development.

Attention was called to the significant fact that the two important periods in the religious development of the young take place between the ages of 10 and 12 and 16 and 17. Careful investigations have shown that 16 years of age is the high point in definite, conscious religious experience. It is at this time that the greatest percentage unites with the church. High school students were warmly urged not to graduate without taking the most important step in their lives.

The following interesting statistics were presented by the pastor:

The music of the day was of special interest. In the morning a trio consisting of Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mr. Blake Franklin and Mr. Ralph W. Beers rendered most effectively a selection. In the evening in addition to the anthem, a duet by Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke and Mr. Blake Franklin was beautifully given. The violin quartet added much to the music of tne morning.

PREPARING FOR WINTER

Paper soaked in water makes one of the best and cheapest fuels that can be obtained, according to scientists. By a simple and easy process, which anyone can undertake, an accumulation of old papers, whether wrapping paper, newspaper or bags, can be converted into fuel for stove, fireplace or furnace.

All that is necessary to do is to pile the papers into a tub or other large receptacle for holding water until it is one-third full and then fill the tub to the brim with water.

Let the papers soak thoroughly in the tub for two or three days. If they show an inclination to float weight them down with a stone until they are completely covered by the water.

After they have been thoroughly soaked they are to be taken out and pressed into balls about the size of one's two fists and then thrown on the ground to dry in the sun.

The water has made the papers so soft and pulpy that it is easy to form a perfectly compact ball. These balls will dry, if they are left in the sun long enough, until they become as hard as wood. If they are made in the summer they will make a remarkable fuel for winter use and will burn with a glow like that of carbon briquettes.

They have other advantages in that they will burn with comparatively little ash and are clean and easy to handle. They not only supply fuel but they solve the difficult problem of what to do with old papers which are a real nuisance about the house and are difficult to dispose of even by burning. A summer's accumulation of paper can be converted by this means into a considerable supply of fuel. The work is easy and can be done at odd times.

GOT BY WITH IT

A little boy went to Sunday school for the first time. His mother gave him a nickel to put into the collection box. When he returned he had a sack of candy.

"Where did you get the candy?" asked his mother.

"From the stand around the corner."

"But what did you buy it with?"

"With the nickel you gave me."

"'But that was for Sunday School!'"

"Well," replied the boy, "I didn't need it. The minister met me at the door and got me in free.

WILLING TO BE HEIR

Outside it was snowing hard and the teacher considered it her duty to warn her charges.

"Boys and girls should be very careful to avoid colds at this time," she said solemnly. "I had a darling little brother, only seven years old, One day he went out in the snow with his new sled and caught cold. Pneumonia set in and in three days he was dead."

A hush fell upon the schoolroom; then a youngster in the back row stood up and asked:

"Where's his sled?"

Filkins—"Thought you intended to sell your suburban home?"

Wilkins—"I did until I read the alluring story my advertising man wrote; then I decided to keep it myself."—Judge.

OPPORTUNITIES

The magnitude of the army of young people who are entering the schools in the rural districts and the great centers of population of the United States this month ought to give a thrill of enthusiasm and an earnest desire to make the most of the opportunities to every member of this vast multitude, numbering over 22,000,000. Of this number more than 19,000,000 will be in the elementary schools, 1,375,000 in secondary schools, public and private, and approximately 218,000 in colleges and universities. In the normal schools there will be fully 100,000 preparing to be teachers, and 70,000 in the various professional schools.

The teachers of this army will number fully 700,000, of whom 566,000 will be in the public schools. Estimates of the cost of education for this multitude are all the way from $750,000,000 to $800,000,000. This is only a few hundred millions less than the cost of running the Federal government. On the other hand, it is a sorry fact that it is less than one-third of the nation's expenditure for alcoholic liquors. It is a little over three times the estimated cost of admissions to moving-picture theaters for a year.

THE FAITHFUL FEW

When the meetin's called to order,
  And you look around the room,
You're sure to see more faces
  That from out the shadows loom;
They are always at the meeting,
  And stay until it's through;
The ones that I would mention
  Are the always faithful few.

They fill the vacant offices,
  As they're always on the spot,
No matter what's the weather,
  Though it may be awful hot;
It may be damp and rainy,
  But they are tried and true—
The ones that you rely upon
  Are the always faithful few.

There's lots of worthy brothers
  Who will come when in a mood—
When everything's convenient,
  They can do a little good,
They're a factor in the order,
  And are necessary, too;
But the ones who never fail us
  Are the always faithful few.

If it were not for these faithful,
  Whose shoulders at the wheel
Keep the order moving onward
  Without a halt or reel,
What would be the fate of others
  Who claim so much to do?
They surely would go under
  But for the faithful few.

POOR DEAR!

Mother (to little boy)—"Oh, don't be tiresome and keep on asking impossible questions, Percy."

Old Gentleman (slightly hard of hearing)—"Don't scold him, madam. I think, if I may say so, that it is a duty to help children when they are trying to acquire knowledge—what is it you want to know, my little man?"

Percy—"Why do dogs have tails."

"Dear teacher," wrote little Edith's mother, "please excuse Edith for not coming to school yesterday. She fell in the mud. By doing the same you will greatly oblige.—Her Mother."

DEBT-COLLECTING LETTERS

Frederick Stevens of Detroit publishes some sample collection letters of the "different" kind. Here are two:

Did you ever stop to think of it, or think of it without stopping—the regularity of the influx of remittances as shown in the daily mail, is the one greatest lubricant of a well managed business.

The financing of a business, whether it occupies ten floors or one, is the keel upon which it must float.

It's the arithmetic that shows the way to solve all difficult problems.

In short "Money Counts."

Would you mind if I counted yours to the extent of $224.30 to cover my shipments of March 22nd which I hope were satisfactory.

I will make good use of your check by passing its contents along.

Another thing—I want to do more business with you.

Yours very truly,

"The following letter was used as No. 3 in a series; after No. 3 there follows a draft, if that comes back unpaid there is, still, the attorney, but collections through an attorney are, of course, the last resort.

In our experimental days we made the discovery that the car had yet to be made that would run without gasoline. What gasoline is to a car, money is to a going business.

It won't go without it!

That's the reason I wrote you, April 23rd, asking for settlement of my shipments of March 22nd, amounting to $224.30.

I never send out a letter of that kind until AFTER the account is due, and over-due. Then, I regard it as a business proposition, nothing more, nothing less. Sometimes I receive letters of that kind myself. Your attention now would help me stave them off.

Will you so favor me?

I would like to have more of your orders, too.

Yours very truly,

"To touch the pocket-book and not touch the sensitiveness of the debtor is the double purpose of the good-natured letter, and such a plan, systematically followed, will, I believe, 'get the money.'"

DEDUCTING THE FACTS

A young man dropped into a state of coma and it was several days before he fully recovered. Later he spoke of his experience with a party of friends.

"O, yes," the young man said in response to a question, "I knew all the time what was going on, and I also knew that I wasn't dead, because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"I see," thoughtfully said one of his friends, "but how did that make you think that you were still alive?"

"Well," answered the young man, "I knew that if I were in heaven I wouldn't be hungry and that if I were anywhere else my feet wouldn't be cold."

Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true:
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellow men sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and heaven securely.
—Henry van Dyke.

WHAT IS THIS MONSTER?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the nations.

I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest siege guns.

I steal in the United States alone, over $3,000,000 each year.

I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and weak. Widows and orphans know me.

I loom up to such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners a year.

I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless.

I am everywhere—in the house, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush and maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

Answer—"I am carelessness."

ALGY GOES TO SEA, MOSTLY

The steamer rolled and pitched in the mountainous waves, and Algy was very seasick.

"Deah boy," he groaned, "promise me you will send my remains to my people."

An hour passed.

"Deah boy," feebly moaned Algy, "You needn't bother about sending my remains home—there won't be any.

HOSPITAL SCENE

Kerrigan and O'Brien were talking together about their operations.

Kerrigan says to O'Brien: "The doctor sewed me up and left his scissors inside me."

O'Brien says to Kerrigan: "The doctor left a spool of thread in me."

Just then the doctor came in and said: "Has anyone seen my satchel?"

Kerrigan and O'Brien dropped dead.

WHEREIN SOMEONE IS SPOOFED

The principal of a high school tells the following:

"One day at school I gave a bright boy a sum in algebra, and although the problem was comparatively easy he couldn't do it. I remarked:

"'You ought to be ashamed of yourself. At your age George Washington was a surv yor.'

"The boy looked me straight in the face, and replied:

"'At your age he was President of the United States.'"

"Climate that suits one person doesn't suit another," said the western man.

"That's right," said the New Yorker.

"But your New York climate is the limit."

"But just stop and think how many people we have to please in New York."—Exchange.

Misrepresentation

The advertising of cut rate undertakers, and those "independent of the trust" (whatever that means) is misleading to the public. They furnish nothing more than does this firm at the same price.

THE WAY YOU'RE GOING

Along life's open thoroughfare,
  If you would not stumble,
Learn to look the way you go,
  Without roil or rumble.
Look straight on and take no steps
  Without fully knowing
Where each footprint next to place,
  Look The Way You're Going.

Would you sow and reap for good?
  Would you walk uprightly?
See where others make missteps
  And in their ways go lightly.
Would you win fair name and fame?
  Better each day growing,
Straight and narrow paths secure
  For The Way You're Going.

Would you look backward satisfied
With things as you have found them?
Don't tread on other people's toes,
  When you can well go round them.
Don't take a train that is to pass
  Another, without knowing
That you're on a switch or double track
  And which way each is going.

In crowded street, or forest wild,
  On foot or gayly mounted,
'Tis ever well to look ahead
  With all obstructions counted,
And better not to blindly go
  Forward without knowing
That the track is clear ahead
  Along The Way You're Going.
—Clark W. Bryan, in Good Housekeeping.

WORKING HIS FAVORITE SUIT

"What business are you going to put your son to, Brown?"

"Well, haven't decided yet, but judging from the hours he keeps, I should say he was naturally cut out for a milkman."

Twenty-five persons handling game in interstate commerce in violation of the Lacey Act have received jail sentences, and a number of others have paid an aggregate of $12,500 in fines during the last four years. The fines range from $1 to $200, the latter being the maximum prescribed under the law. Some 700 cases in all have been investigated and of these, 350 have been reported for prosecution by the Bureau of Biological Survey of the department, which has charge of the administration of this statute.

The total road mileage of New Jersey at the close of 1914 was 14,817.19, exclusive of streets in towns. Of this, 5,897.45 miles, or 39.8 per cent, were surfaced. Of the latter, 2,858.52 miles were gravel, 1,809.24 untreated macadam, and 417.63 miles bituminous macadam.

SILENCE

Silence has never left her cover
In the heather on the heath.

Across her refuge peers the steeple,
And with its fingers shakes its bells;
Around her prowl the vehicles,
Laden with uproarious people;
Around her, where the fir-trees end,
In its rut the cart-wheel grates;
But never a noise has strength to rend
The . . . space where silence waits. . . .

Silence has stirred not in the heather;
And the heath, wherein the evenings sink,
Beyond the endless thickets, and
The purple mounds of hidden sand,
Lengthens her haunts to heaven's brink.

And even winds stir not the slim
Larches at the marsh's rim,
Where she will glass her abstract eyes
In pools where wondering lilies rise;
And only brushes her the clouds'
Shadow when they rush in crowds,
Or else the shadow of a flight
Of hovering hawks at heavens' height. . . .

And those who in her realm did roam,
Whether it were in dawn or gloam,
They all have felt their hearts held fast
In spells of mystery she has cast. . . .
—Emile Verhaeren (Tr. from the French by Jethro Bithell).

Betsy, an old colored cook, was moaning around the kitchen one day, when her mistress asked if she was ill.

"No, ma'am, not 'zactly," said Betsy. "But the fac' is, I don't feel ambition 'nough to git outer my own way."
